

TICON'S Patent Bee Hive and Protector.

BY the use of this Hive, Bees are protected from insects and vermin, an absence of which is a great impediment to the proper management of your hives, and a season has been lost from the time of its introduction, and within the three years past, it is a complete protection against the attacks of neighboring bees, hornets, wasps, &c., and affords protection for replacing and renewing swarms of your bees. It is constructed of a block of wood, about two or three weeks earlier than from other hives. The surplus honey is readily obtained from it, in a pure state, without injuring the bees or leaves of suitable use for family use or the market.

This Hive is constructed of philosophical and scientific principles, and can only be invented by those who are conversant with the insects and natural history of the bee.
